Role summary

The University of Cambridge Institute for Sustainability Leadership (CISL) has been at the forefront of defining and catalysing the leadership needed for a sustainable economy for nearly 30 years. Nearly 8,000 executives and practitioners have participated in our educational programmes that seek to empower and develop leaders who will drive change to create the future we want. Our global alumni network is itself a powerful vehicle for change, which provides a virtuous circle of learning as alumni return to participate in research, teaching and case studies. Through this interaction, the Institute is able to continually learn from the cutting edge of practice as it emerges, which we then integrate into our teaching.

CISL is an Institute within the University of Cambridge. We work, both with individual companies and by convening groups of leading companies and policymakers, on issues such as sustainable urbanisation, inclusive development, business innovation, sustainable production and consumption, and climate change policy. Our model of working gives us a deep understanding of the strategic issues faced by companies and leaders as they attempt to align their strategy and action with the future we want.

The Institute’s executive education services include executive seminars, customised programmes, online courses and consultancy. The team works with approximately 50 major corporate and Government clients, and 600 individual students each year. CISL’s programmes are designed and led by the CISL team, involving the Institute’s Fellows and Associates – and wider network of subject experts - as faculty, tutors, facilitators and guest contributors.

The role of Programme Manager involves managing key initiatives from the planning stage through to delivery and evaluation. The role contributes to the business development process through research, analysis and the development of proposals. A Programme Manager assists the Directors with the development of new programmes by engaging senior leaders to understand client needs and priorities, and produces relevant information and learning materials to develop CISL’s business activities. The successful candidate will identify and consult with thought leaders and experts to inform and deliver programmes and services and work with Programme Directors to ensure that programmes and services are delivered at high levels of quality and client satisfaction.

General Information

The University of Cambridge Institute for Sustainability Leadership

The University of Cambridge Institute for Sustainability Leadership (CISL) is a globally influential Institute developing leadership and solutions for a sustainable economy.
Through leadership and collaboration between business, government and finance institutions, we believe the economy can be ‘rewired’ to deliver positive outcomes for people and the environment.

We support this by:

- Building the leadership capacity of individuals
- Developing the capability of organisations
- Facilitating collaboration and dialogue across conventional boundaries
- Catalysing innovation and solutions
- Building the evidence base for action

Each year we work with business, government and finance leaders in over 250 organisations and more than 1,200 individuals complete one of our graduate or executive programmes.

We have a leadership network of over 8,000 senior leaders and practitioners from business, government and civil society who have an impact in every sector and on every continent. Their experience and insights shape our work, which is underpinned by multidisciplinary academic research.

Our activities span the breadth of sustainable development, with particular focus on six key areas critical to the transition to a sustainable economy:

1. Sustainable finance – How can we create a finance system that rewards long-term thinking?
2. Economic innovation – How will industries, jobs and markets evolve, and how should public policy and business ensure economic development is inclusive and sustainable?
3. Inclusive development – How can companies become agents of improved health and livelihoods, whilst providing more equitable access to income and opportunity?
4. Natural capital – How can companies sustain the natural world and its resources through their strategies and operating practices?
5. Future cities – How can cities develop vibrant communities of healthy people, supported by clean, green energy, food, water and transportation systems?
6. Leadership - How can individual and organisational leaders shape the economy to deliver positive sustainability outcomes, whilst ensuring successful and resilient organisations?

We operate across UK and Europe, sub-Saharan Africa, Latin America, Asia and the Middle East – with offices in Cambridge, Brussels and Cape Town, and delivery partners in Beijing and Melbourne.

HRH The Prince of Wales is our Royal Founding Patron and has inspired and supported many of our initiatives.

The University of Cambridge

The University is one of the world's leading academic centres. It comprises 150 faculties and departments, together with a central administration and other institutions. Our institutions, museums and collections are an excellent resource for researchers, students and members of the public representing one of the country’s highest concentrations of internationally important collections.

The University has an annual income of £1.66 billion. Research income, won competitively from the UK Research Councils, the European Union (EU), major charities and industry, exceeds £400 million per annum and continues to grow. The Colleges and the University remain committed to admitting the best students regardless of their background and to investing considerable resources in both widening access and financial support.

The 31 Colleges are self-governing, separate legal entities that appoint their own staff. Many academic staff are invited to join a College as a Teaching Fellow, which provides a further social and intellectual dimension. The Colleges admit students, provide student accommodation and deliver small group teaching.
University awards degrees and its faculties and departments provide lectures and seminars for students and determine the syllabi for teaching and conducting research.

The University’s estate is undergoing the most significant transformation in its history. Cambridge has been able to create a new science and technology campus to the west of the city centre, and is now expanding further to the north west of Cambridge including investing in affordable homes for University key workers and community facilities. Even with our continued development, the University remains within walking or cycling distance across the campus. The University is a major partner on the Cambridge Biomedical Campus and we continue to redevelop our historic city centre sites demonstrating our determination to ensure that we can offer the best facilities and opportunities for our staff and students.

Our instinct for seeking out excellence and setting up enduring and mutually beneficial collaborations has led us to establish strategic partnerships across the globe. Whether it is the successful Cambridge-Africa Programme involving universities in Ghana, Uganda and elsewhere on the African continent; or the close association with the government of India to pursue new research in crop science; or the creation, with Germany’s Max Planck Institutes, of a Cambridge-based centre for the study of ethics, human economy and social change – international partnerships are now an inextricable part of the University’s make-up.

There is much more information about the University at http://www.cam.ac.uk/univ/works/index.html that we hope you will find helpful.

We offer reduced staff fees for University of Cambridge graduate courses and the opportunity to attend lectures and seminars held by University departments and institutions. The CareerStart@Cam programme also supports employees in assistant staff roles who do not hold higher education qualifications to develop their skills, experience and qualifications.
Equality of Opportunity at the University

We are committed to a proactive approach to equality, which includes supporting and encouraging all under-represented groups, promoting an inclusive culture and valuing diversity. We make selection decisions based on personal merit and an objective assessment against the criteria required for the post. We do not treat job applicants or members of staff less favourably than one another on the grounds of sex (including gender reassignment), marital or parental status, race, ethnic or national origin, colour, disability (including HIV status), sexual orientation, religion, age or socio-economic factors.

We have various diversity networks to help us progress equality; these include the Women’s Staff Network, the Disabled Staff Network, the Black and Minority Ethnic Staff Network and the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Staff Network. In addition, we ranked in the top 100 employers for lesbian, gay and bisexual (LGB) staff in Stonewall’s Workplace Equality Index 2013 and we hold an Athena SWAN silver award at organisation level for promoting women in Science, Technology, Engineering and Medicine.

We are supportive of staff with caring responsibilities, such as through our flexible working, career break and returning carer’s schemes. We encourage individuals to include details of any breaks in employment due to caring responsibilities in applications for employment so that these can be taken into consideration in assessments made, where appropriate.
