

Terms and conditions*

Acceptance on to a programme

Acceptance on to the programme is by application and selection via a competitive process. All applications are reviewed by the Cambridge Institute for Sustainability Leadership (CISL)'s Selection Committee. Master's applications must also be approved by the Institute of Continuing Education, and the Degree Committee of either the Cambridge Judge Business School or Department of Architecture.

Participation

The CISL seminar/workshop process involves group work which can be disrupted by the absence of a participant from any part of the event. Candidates are therefore required to participate in full in all sessions. Membership of our alumni network is also conditional upon full participation.

Applying for a visa for entering or studying in the UK

Please note that all programme participants are responsible for arranging their own visa for entry into the UK, should one be required. The residential components of the programme are of short duration and this influences the type of visa that will be granted. CISL can provide an official visa support letter for the programme in order to facilitate the obtaining of a visa specifically for the dates on which the residential components of the programme takes place. If you will require this, please indicate in your application form.

Payment

Programme places are only confirmed once the required financial guarantees have been received. Invoices are payable within 30 days of invoice date and in advance of the first workshop.

Non-payment

In the event of non-payment, we reserve the right to refuse admittance to programme events. Within postgraduate programmes, submitted assignments will not be assessed and the candidate will not be recommended for an award of credit.

Cancellation

Cancellations are usually non-refundable. A request to intermit will be subject to approval and is not granted automatically. Programme places are not transferable.

Accompanying spouses/wider participation

Unfortunately, it is not possible to cater for accompanying spouses or other guests. The workshops are very intensive, and numbers of participants restricted.

Fitness to study and appropriate behaviour

The University has the right to suspend or withdraw any student from their studies should their behaviour or health disrupt their welfare or academic progress, or that of others in the academic community, or has the potential to do so. The University expects all members of its community to treat each other with respect, courtesy and consideration at all times, and that this applies to all course-related activities, including interactions with fellow students for the online learning, group project and social events. Please see www.cambridgestudents.cam.ac.uk/welfare-and-wellbeing/dignitystudy for further information.

These are indicative terms and conditions. Full and final terms will be provided in the admissions agreement and/or financial undertaking form following the offer of a place on the programme.*
