

GAMAL ALBINSAID GARBAGE CLINICAL INSURANCE

ACCESS TO HEALTHCARE IN INDONESIA

Garbage Clinical Insurance (GCI) is a health micro insurance program which uses garbage as financial resources. The community pay for clinic services using garbage. This way the community mobilises their own resources to improve health access and breakdown barriers between health facilities and community.

GCI becomes an incentive for the community to start proper waste management from household level, thus contributing to improve local sanitation. Garbage Clinical Insurance is empowering every individual to mobilise overlooked resources and take an active role in managing health financing.
